I have therefore devoted a considerable space to the discussion of these practical matters. In the first place, I have striven to combat that helplessness nowadays so prevalent amongst experimenters, who have to resort to the mechanic for every trifle, because they cannot trust themselves to bore a hole or solder on a wire. I must confess in this connection that I have always taken a special pleasure in pottering and making things for myself. Many of my investigations have been conducted with home-made apparatus, and the advantages I derived from this mode of working have been so considerable that I cannot refrain from urging my fellow-workers to adopt it. A book such as this can of course make no pretension to completeness....
