Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Bookbinding and Its Auxiliary Branches, Vol. 1 of 4: In Four Parts It is not laudation of any trade to say that it follows in a beaten path when there is no reason therefor except that methods of procedure are habitual. That the present-day craftsman leaves too much to precedent and habit, and does not exercise enough his power of initiative, is demonstrated clearly by experience in paper ruling. To improve ought to be the constant aim: to do this, the continuation of steadfast methods and styles must be merited by sufficient reasons. The invention of machinery has given impetus to all branches of manufacturing, and, by the displacement of hand labor, has given a possibility for further development of modern methods, yet we find there is in many ruling rooms labor performed by hand which, with a proper understanding of hand and machine methods, might be done more expeditiously and perfectly with machines. Modern conditions and demands, however, are not an unmitigated advance; coupled with the opportunity for improved methods have come the pressure of competition and the slipshod makeshifts to economize in material and time without regard to the fineness or durability of the product. Art with cheapness was the motto of the ancient Greek, and it would be well for the modern man also to adopt that slogan. Cheapness, in contrast to extravagance, is meant, not to be confused with shoddiness. The Greek believed, as we should, that simplicity and plain durability were the methods of attainment. So, changes in, as well as continuation of, methods and styles of paper ruling must be merited by sufficient reasons. The terms of paper ruling...
